If you start tinkering in the back of your radio, you'll find there's a heap of parts behind the dials some small, some big, but all apparently essential for the seemingly involved process of pulling human voices and musical sounds out of the atmosphere.

Most people can't tell anything by looking at the parts of a radio. They judge whether a set is good or bad by the quality of what comes out and by the look of the cabinet.

That's the way it is with schools.

The factors that go toward making a good school are almost innumerable. You could make a list as long as your arm-as long as both your arms-and still only be starting. And even then how would you know which items were impor tant and which were not? How can you judge?

As in assessing a radio, you can consider what comes out and you can look at the cabinets-in this case, the buildings. The product of our schools is on display each June. You can see it at any high school graduation. It will impress you as a good product and something of which to be proud. Maybe you think that's all that matters. Maybe you take the attitude if the finished article is all right, there's no need to worry about anything else. But at least you can look at the buildings. Maybe if you look really close you'll get a shock. You'll find schools old and obsolete. It's no use getting excited though, and running with a pro-test to a teacher, principal or inspector. They know about it. It's one of their biggest prob-

SURVEY SHOWED FAULTS

Certain things about Greater Victoria school buildings sprang out in relief when the Times conducted its survey among representative principals in the area. The survey was based on an all-embracing questionnaire prepared and proved authorita-tive by the Educational Testing at Princeton, N.J.

The 63 questions asked each principal dealt with tangible qualities and intangibles as well. quantes and intangiones as weit.

Some were general and subject to interpretation, but those about physical features of schools were straightforward and straightforward answers were provided.

It was soon obvious to inter many of the features the American test considered necessary for a "good" school. Hot running water, for instance, was shown to be the exception, rather than the rule, in elementary schools.

The basic trouble, it can easily be shown, is that most of our west building at Central Junior High School was built in 1875. After 75 years, it's a somewhat picturesque structure ut certainly not suited to the daily use to which it is put.

Three generations have tramped up its narrow inside stairs. It was condemned not so long ago, but because the space there was so badly needed, certain repair work was done, another coat of paint was applied to some of the walls and it Falls In Thick Fog LONDON (AP)—An airliner crashed tonight in landing a thick fog at London airport. First unconfirmed reports said 31 persons were feared killed.

Rescue workers were hampered by autumn's first heavy fog and darkness. One report said airport firemen were told look for 31 bodies. The plane was arriving from Paris and originally was scheduled to land at Northolt air-port but was diverted because of he weather to London airport. First sketchy reports said the plane landed on the runway and then hurtled off the end into a heavy barrier. One airport reporter said: "There's supposed to be nothing left intact of the plane but its

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

SPEECHES TO ORDER

A MONG THE VOLUMINOUS mail which daily drops through matter—to say nothing of bills, private and public correspondence and, sometimes, queer letters from queer people. But nothing intrigues me quite so much as the imposing envelopes marked "Confidential" which reach me every month or so from Clereland.

For Cleveland, O., is the home of an organization whose sole object in life seems to be to help out aspiring—and per-spiring—public speakers who find themselves at a loss for what to say on occasion. And what speaker hasn't, at some time or another, been in just such a pickle and predicament?

PUBLIC PREDICAMENT

often to me, judging by the assiduity with which they pursu me with their offerings, as set out in their voluminous catalogues. THE CONCERN in question evidently thinks it happens pretty

It's true, as any one in public life knows, that age isn't ed to wither the readiness of a speaker to hop to his or supposed to wither the readiness of a speaker to hop to his or her feet on every conceivable or inconceivable occasion, nor custom stale his or her ability to speak on every conceivable or unconceivable subject at a moment's notice. And the Cleveland, O., outfit evidently knows it, too. That's why it is always ready to come to the aid of the party.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

SO IT DANGLES a delectable array of prepared speeches as bait—at so much per speech. They range through an amazingly wide field, from the purely local level to the international sphere, embracing all sorts of occasions from birthdays to patriotic celebrations. And if you don't find what you want in the catalogue they will ghost-write a custom-built peroration of 20-minute length for only $20.

But for the small sum of $1.50 you can make a good fellow of yourself at a dinner by investing in the "collection of com-plimentary acknowledgements"—or votes of thanks. This should help do away with those well-meaning but discursive— and sometimes anti-climatic—effusions which often prolong an already too long after-dinner program.

WIT ABOUT WOMEN

FOR THE SAME modest sum you can be a "riot" at a stag or FOR THE SAME modest sum you can be a "riot" at a stag or mixed dinner by a five-minute "funny talk on women seen from a critical man's point of view," or dilate on the "bliss and blisters of married life." While it only costs $3 to be furnished with all the material—even down to the pauses for laughs, I presume—for "an extremely funny talk on married life and troubles." As it is double the price, I assume it is twice as rib-tickling as the "bliss and blisters" chat.

Nor are the lady speakers neglected. They, too, can buy a dollar-and-a-half's worth of wit for working off on the "gals" at feminine gatherings or for sparkling sallies on ladies' nights at hubby's club or lodge, such as "Humorous remarks concerning married life." As if the average wife—or husband, for that er-hadn't enough such material on tap, without paying

CLUBS AND CIVICS

FOR FROM TWO to five dollars, lodge or club members can be reinforced with words to suit every lodge and every club in the roster and for every occasion, complete with inspiration and ideals served up on toast(s) and embellished with wit and wisdom. Even the Izaak Walton League is catered to—no doubt

But when it comes to civic affairs, the opportunities are really amazing. You can learn "who really owns the city and for whom the city is being run," or "how to build a better and more progressive town"—on paper—for the mere outlay of $2. And that's a cheap enough way of settling what seems to be a problem in a good many citizens' minds—even if you do have to go to Cleveland, O., to find out.

Preparing For The Next Phase

Nations troops into Korea's industrial north has brought two facts to attention. One is that the peninsula is so divided—industry in the north and agriculture in the south—that it must have unity if the people of either section have unity if the people of either section are to enjoy economic progress. To have left the two territories permanently separated would have been equivalent to cutting the factories of Ontario away from the granary of the West; or to leaving East and West Germany per-manently split into industrial and agricultural entities.

To achieve that unity in Korea is the first objective of the United Nations. Its attainment is conditioned upon winning the war—a process now in its final stages. And it is to be hoped that the very fact of the victory—the animosities and bitter memories that are inevitable in such a conflict—will not work too strongly against the completion of the relinquish their grasp on this important section of the country without a deter-mined effort to stave off defeat. Hydroelectric developments and other indus-trial establishments in the north no doubt played a considerable part in the economy not only of Communist Korea but of neighboring Red territory in Siberia and Manchuria. Their loss might be felt far afield.

While the fighting still continues, the planners are busy. Pessimistic observers say it will be 20 years before Korea recovers from the destruction and unsettlement of the war. That might well be, although the experience of countries shattered by the recent world conflict suggests a greater human resilience in the face of misfortune. More optimistic estimates set "five years of tireless effort" as the period needed to restore balance. That the job will be a vast one, there can be no doubt. It is equally obvious that the main burden, initially at any rate, must fall on the U.N. To that task-of construction rather than destruction—the member nations must devote a comparable measure of aid.

Keep Up The Good Record

DURING RECENT YEARS THE Dyoung people of this community have abandoned the old destructive practices of earlier Hallowe'ens. The night when the spirits reputedly walk abroad has been transformed into a relatively innocuous period of fun for costumed youngsters of tender years. That is what it should be.

If events follow the course which has become normal, no serious vandalism need be expected tonight. There are adequate forms of amusement for children and youths without resort to spiteful damage. In view of the fact, owever, that certain of the parties formerly planned by school and com-munity groups have been abandoned, it seems wise to remind parents of the desirability of warning their children against reversion to a less enlightened approach to Hallowe'en.

The night provides no excuse for struction. There is nothing highspirited or prankish about actions which entail demolition of property or injury to people. Let's keep it happy. It is an occasion for young people's enjoyment, not an invitation to juvenile wrecking crews to vent their spleen on the public

David Thumbs Goliath

ONCE UPON A TIME A COMMUNITY on the mainland of British Columbia was know as Gastown. It blew up in the 'eighties. That was tragic. But it did not take long for the good burghers of the place to recapture the spirit which had inspired their forebears to hack out of the wilderness the beginnings of what was destined to become one of the great cities of the North American continent.

Of course Vancouver, despite the disability under which it suffers because of the tortuous passage through which ocean-going vessels have to plough, has had its troubles. During and after the First Great War it developed the idea that when it wanted anything, all it had to do was to send a delegation from the ard of Trade to the government here in Victoria and all would be well. Not that we take a sneaking delight in recalling one interview which a mass attack of municipal representatives from every and cranny of the province trained on the late Premier John Oliver-the man who shouted sweet nothings into their ears and told them to get back to work and drop their juvenile outlook.

What we, in this so-called backward city of Victoria are worried about, how-ever, is the lamentable condition of our young upstart neighbor across the Gulf. Back in the sunny days of September, or so the public prints inform us, a Community Chest campaign there for this year of grace, 1950, got under way. $850,000 was the objective. Trained P.R.O. men were brought in; they used every type of persuasion, known and unknown, calculated to ease the zipper on the ordinary purse. Yet, as Novem-her is about to shake its icy mitt at some parts of Canada—not Victoria, of course —Vancouver is still short of its Community Chest objective!

To say that we Victorians are sorry that the great and thriving city of more than 400,000 souls has fallen down on the job would be a gratituous insult. What we do say, on the other hand, is that when the time rolls round in 1951 for the annual appeal in behalf of this worthwhile cause our organizers will willingly pass on the trick that worked

Press Journal Protests Prices As Paper Mills' Profits Soar

THE $10 per ton price increases on newsprint announced by Powell River and Abitibi were, in the words of A.N.P.A. "precipitate, excessive unwarranted and imed." These precedent-setting an-neements have fallen like a bombshell into newspaper ranks. Publishers are literally stunned by this display of

LOW COST MILL

Powell River is known as a "low cost" mill. In 1949 its net profit amounted to $7,128,525 compared to $6,857,299 in 1948. That was about a 4 per cent gain while the profit trend in the industry was slightly off for the year. In the first six months of this year, Powel months of this year, Powell net profit of $4,065,725, compared to $3,538,527 in the same period last year—an increase in profit of almost 15 per cent. During this period the working capital position of the company had been increased from $7,885,170 at Dec. 31, 1948, to $11,991,420 last Decem-

Abitibi's profits were off about 4 er cent last year—$9,780,947 compared $10,270,586. However, in the first six months of this year Abitibi's net profit was $6,065,138, compared to $4,520,770 in the same period of 1949, an increase of over 34 per cent. During the first part of this year, this company's net sales increased $2,762,928 from the comparable period in 1949-$1,544,368, or 44 per cent, of it went into profit.

Do these companies look as if they have to have another $10 per ton? They certainly do not. They, like all news-print companies, try to give the appearance they are being starved by increased costs while actually their profits are at second highs and their financial condition is better than it has been in 20 years. Their only legitimate complaint is that they are not making money fast enough to retire their bonds or their preferred stocks, as most of them are. Abitibi has just purchased and cancelled 150,557 shares of its preferred stock. It also has announced redemption of $1,836,000 of 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds.

RELIE CLAIMS

The newsprint manufacturers have been spreading the propaganda that they need a price increase to offset higher costs and the change in their dollar value. Their financial statements belie

Other companies have not followed the lead of Powell River and Abitibi as yet, but if they do and regardless of the size of the increase they impose, the only question U.S. publishers will ask is: "How greedy can you get?"

OVER SHE GOES

A CCORDING to Brigadier Fitzroy, M.P. who recently revisited Yugoslavia, Belgrade's efforts to be different from Moscow are producing some healthy changes. "Those responsible seem to be working on the pleasing assumption that if you find out what the Moscow line is, and then do the opposite, you cannot go far wrong." The result, he says, is a sud-den reaction against centralization, con-trols, rigidity, and red tape, all of which are called Stalinist perversions.

The Yugoslavs, who are now urged The Yugosiava, was go about saying to think for themselves, go about saying "No dogmas!" There was even a Bel-grade editorial in favor of the British habit of seeing both sides of a question.
Well, well, well. I'm afraid we have a few Stalinist perversions in Canada in the way of rigidity, controls, etc., and if we elected a Socialist government we would have an infinity of them. I think we should try a little harder to do every-thing dead opposite from Moscow.

A MAN IN MONTREAL found a wal-A let with $2,000 in it, returned it to its owner, and got a $20 reward, which is 1 per cent. The Canadian Press thought this disgusting, and hinted that honesty may not be the best policy after all. I don't know if C.P. Implies that a man's property is not really his own if he it, or simply implies that most of the C.P. boys hang on to all wallets whatever

And if there is an unwritten law about it being more work to carry a fat wallet to its owner than to carry a thin one, what percentage over 1 per cent has the C.P. fixed on for a just rate? 36 per cent? 53 per cent? 99 per cent? . And how the devil can the C.P. be sure that the $2,000 was not about to be used to pay off a fraction of a $10,000 debt? That would hardly make the bearer of two G's a rich man.

AND DOES THIS C.P. percentage rule apply to other lost things than cash? It should. Cash isn't the only valuable. Is the finder of a lost sheep entitled to cut off a saddle of mutton? Does the finder of a lost child get first dip into the piggy-bank, or the finder of a lost wife get a date with her? Do the police demand the right to borrow a stolen car for the next few week-ends after return-ing it? Ah, the C.P. will say, but it is a cop's job to return things. Certainly. But it is also everyone else's job to return things too. What kind of a world does the C.P. want. . . a world where ordinary law-abiding honesty is scarce enough to make it front-page stuff?

I HAVE A BAD habit of wandering through an etymological dictionary in order to astonish myself with the derivahabit if I didn't do it at breakfast, getting marmalade all over Mr. Weekley's excellent work on the subject. Or if I didn't go round trying to astonish others with my surprising finds, thus making them dissatisfied with themselves, with the English language, and with me. But I really did find a humdinger and a genuine lulu this morning. I had always supposed "bridal" was an adjective or noun exactly the same as "nupa noun only, and it means "brideale" is really a noun only, and it means "brideale" . . . that is to say, beer for the wedding guests, or simply a beery wedding party. Prosit! Wassail! Four hundred years ago we find one Mr. Harrison, in his "De scription of England," being very critical of "church-ales, help-ales, and soul-ales, called also dirge-ales, and heathenish rioting at bride-ales."

THAT'S A GOOD QUESTION

SPEAKING of weddings, I have often thought it rather a pity that divorces could not be made social functions, too, just so that there could be real and poignant meaning in the question: "Frenna the bride or frenna the groom?"

SPEAK FOR YOURSELF, SIR.

"A MAN WHO spends four years chasing a preposition back to its origin becomes just as narrow-minded as the preposition itself," declares Dr. Bob Jones Jr., president of Bob Jones University (so help me) of Greenville, South Carolina. Though I see what Bob is getting at, I must deny that many men go chasing poor little prepositions back home. And I must deny with indignation the charge that prepositions are narrow-minded. That's a pretty nasty thing to say, Bob. Just because a preposition may not go to buriesque shows or laugh at the jokes in the Reader's Digest, you needn't sneer at him.

PREDICTIONS

If "Swedenborgian" will read the Bible with any intelligence at all he cannot fail to see that God, through His holy prophets, has predicted certain future events, for the scriptures are generously seasoned with prophecy. Any assertion to the contrary is grossly absurd and pathetically silly. Events are the acid proof of the historicity of the Bible which corrifer it as the only descendable. which certify it as the only dependable source of prophecy.

Any predictions I have made have the authority of the Bible.

"Swedenborgian's" quotation of ponderous and tangled verbiage certainly lacks the ring of Biblical inspiration, for Luke 12:14-48 speaks not of prophecy but of parables. Let your readers judge. C. M. CADWALLADER.

CANADIAN FLAG Your correspondent whose letter on the Canadian Flag was published in Thursday's Times, suggests that writers who demand that the grand old Union Jack be nailed to the mast, are guilty of "furtive propaganda."

of "furtive propaganda." There is nothing furtive in the stern resolve of the majority of Canadians, that the flag of this country shall remain the Union Jack, which is essentially representative of the Cross, symbol of faith and service. The glorious tradi-tions embodied in the union of the crosses of St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick, are the rightful inheritance of Canadians in common with all other countries of our Empire.

Furtive propaganda comes, not from our people who stand for the retention of the Union Jack as Canada's flag, but from sources outside Canada, and working through Canadians with an exaggerated sense of nationalism. These exotic forces would glory in the abolition of the Cross, the Union Jack and the freedom all sops of Canada and other Empire countries now enjoy. In ever grateful memory of those Canadians who died that freedom may live, let us keep the old flag flying.

RISING COSTS

As I read the Times of Oct. 27, I can tell you I was thoroughly scared as to how any old age pensioner could manage to exist upon the small amount he will have to live on in this splurge of rising prices, especially where man and wife will have to subsist upon $50 where only one of them is of pensionable age.

Everything is advancing in price. Even the labor group of 360,000 members in a letter to Trade Minister Howe are seeking action against the profiteers Room rents are up, wool prices are at the highest peak in history, and this means increases in the price of clothes. Civil servants, government employees, and officials are to have cost of living bonuses. Members of Parliament and judges are to receive increases and pensions without a means test. Bread and sugar prices are up, meat is prohibited as fare for small pension receivers.

Hospitals talk of higher charges; Hospitals talk of higher charges; shipyard, brewery, and almost every other organized worker, is asking for increased wages, which will result in higher charges for every commodity.

So is it not past time for our government to institute price and wage controls and thereby cut this vicious circle increasing wages and increasing.

TOO MUCH WATER

Some of you have have had difficulty in bringing the zygo-cactus into bloom because the plant suddenly drops all its buds. This is caused through too much water at the wrong time, and to feeding with too strong a liquid fertilizer. In a heated 100m, around 70 degrees, the plant may need a little water every day, while in an unheated room twice week would be sufficient. From now, until color shows in the buds, a weak liquid fertili-zer should be given once every two weeks. You will be more than repaid in quantity of bloom for this little attention, but be sure to discontinue feeds when color shows.—Hilda.

Deacon Jack Allen was sitting in his office the other day, attempting to kill flies

Deacon Jack Allen was sitting in his office the other day, apting to kill flies with a hammer. Ordinary persons don't oy hammers to kill flies—but Deacon Jack Allen is no ordinary "What the hell?" said Deacon Allen. "This is the late autumn and flies fly a lot slower in late autumn. It wouldn't be sporting to try to kill flies with a fly-swatter or a rolled newspaper or a magazine at this time of year. It would be like shooting to have the said to take more fish in a barrel. I do not wish to take more than my legal bag of six flies per day. The way people are killing flies these days, the time will come when flies will be scarcer than bison."

The Deacon's consistently humanitarian attitude doubtless has resulted from his own unremitting 60-year-old battle for survival. At an age when the consuming fires of cynicism should have left him in ashes, he flourishes like the dandelion a country club lawn.

The Deacon has been a boxing promoter since he was old enough to list "Foul" and now, in the early autumn of his own life, he is reasonably content to sit in his gymnasium-office with his social secretary, Michael Lochinvar Levinsky. For his part, Levinsky is almost completely useless, even in menial tasks of exterminating flies. Only last week, two flies turned on Levinsky, hurled him to the floor and pinned him there until the next morning when The Deacon returned to the office and routed the assailants with the

Because of the fact that he spent his formative years in the San Francisco Bay region, many of the biggest men in the boxing business have attempted to make money for The Deacon. Throughout the years, he has been the close friend of Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns and Ancil Hoffman.

When Hoffman guided Max Baer to the world's heavyweight When Hoffman guided Max Baer to the world's heavyweight championship, he telephoned to his old friend Allen who, at that time, was waging an amiable "cold war" against the bailiffs in Vancouver. "Jack, old pal, old pal," said Hoffman. "I will bring Baer to Vancouver to stage a fight for you, against some suitable ent, and you can make yourself a score opponent, and you can make yourself a score.

Overjoyed, The Deacon scurried about, attempting to find a heavyweight to joust with Baer. Strangely enough, upon hearing that Baer would visit the Northwest, all the heavyweights in the area crawled back into the cedar-siding.

Kept Him Away From Fans

In his hour of despond, The Deacon was visited by an importunate young Greek impressario named Dave Cavadas. Catching The Deacon with his grog down, Cavadas convinced him that he had a Bentley has two goals and six suitably violent heavyweight in the person of one James J. Walsh, whom he was pleased to bill as "The Alberta Assassin." In desperation, The Deacon unbuckled the fare to import Mr. Walsh from Alberta.

When Walsh detrained from Alberta, Allen took one look at him and rushed for the blood-bank. "The Alberta Assassin" was a Mister Five-by-Five. When The Deacon took him into a gym, his worst fears were confirmed—James J. Walsh sparred like a man attempt-

"That's the general idea," said The Deacon sourly.

You shall be spared the horrible details. Suffice to say, the Baér-Walsh bout was the last ever staged in the Old Vancouver Arena. In some mysterious manner, the word of Walsh's prowess was noised abroad and the customers stayed away from the Arena in great numbers. Baer clowned for two minutes, but reluctantly, he was forced to destroy Walsh with a single punch to his ample

It Was Divine Justice

The Deacon managed to beat the sheriff out of the Arena and took Hoffman and Baer to a pleasant little spot on Union Street where he assuaged his grief with copious libations of the grape. Some hours later, they emerged and the night skies were flam-red. They hurried to the western end of the city, and sure igh, the Arena had burned to the ground.

"I wouldn't be sure that our bout set fire to the Arena." The Deacon now says soiemnly, "but it was a clear case of divine justice." The Deacon had his hammer in his office the other day when The Deacon had his nammer in his office the duel as which was talking about it. Quickly, he put the hammer in a drawer and slammed the drawer shut. "I don't think I'll kill any more flies," he said. "I'm lucky to be alive myself."

Tiremen, Co-ops Still Share Lead In Commercial

They're still giving away a three-game bargain bill for four bits down at the Memorial Arena on Monday nights but there's been a change in the Commercial Hockey League since last season.

Yes, most of the old favorites are back in the pink again after taking the first few weeks to loosen up some of those summer softened muscles.

But the pink again after in the third period with Ron Markle slipping the disc past Jones at 16.47 to give Tiremen their third straight win.

But there's been a change. You can't put your're finger on it right away but after a while you see it. It's in the work of the goalkeepers.

The evening's results left Tiremen and Co-ops tied for the league lead with three wins; Navy, Civil Service and B.O.P. in goalkeepers.

GOALIES SHINE

At this stage of last year's race, the goalies weren't by any means the most brilliant performers on the ice. However, it's a different story this season. Take last night's tripleheader for example.

Little furore that was raised in certain quarters last week when Al Leader, president of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, lodged a broadside in Vancouver over the condition of the ice in our Memorial Arena was nothing more than a tempest in a teapot. Ad-mitted the ice might have been below normal the night the league prexy was in town. What arena doesn't experience the same problem throughout the course of a season? A National Hockey League game scheduled in Chicago recently was called off because of slushy ice. Few nights later a game in Detroit was all but ruined for the customers when the players were slowed down to a Sallaway walk owing to the soft playing surface.

What burned most of the locals was the fact that Leader waited until he got to Vancouver to make his criticism. "I was around all evening and can't understand why Leader didn't say something to me if he considered the ice bad," cracked arena manager Joe Dutkowski. "I'll wager our ice is every bit as good as any other arena in the circuit." Of course it could be that Leader was speaking in general terms when he mentioned the bad ice in an effort to gain better co-operation, if possible, from all the rinks. It was just un fortunate that our Memorial Arena was the one he picked on to name specifically.

Kinks Being Ironed Out

Since the arena was opened little over a year ago it has been evident the plant had many little faults. A critic could go on indefinitely picking the plant to pieces. What would be gained? Through the efforts of the Arena Commission the many little kinks are gradually being ironed out and as one fan remarked: "You can't help but admit it is a beautiful

All things being equal the big time clock should be back in place in short order. Since the close of last season rumors regarding the Athletics have been flying around thick and fast. It has even been reported in some circles that the ball club would be sold to outside interests. Checking on this rumor I learned no such move is contemplated at the present time. It is no secret that the club has financial problems but they are not as serious as some people would make out. Majority of fans who attend the pro games have no idea of the amount of money it takes to operate a club in class B organized baseball. They look at the 100,000 attendance figures and immediately jump to conclusions that the club must have made a lot of heavy cash. It would be a smart idea to paint the real picture for the supporters and then they would be in a much better position to pass judgment on the efforts of the officials in charge of the Athletics.

Brilliant Jones Sets Up Grid Scoring Mark

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian football fans can see at a glance why Edgar Jones picked up the "Special Delivery" when he played with the professional Cleveland Browns in the United States.

Statistics compiled by the Canadian Press show that Jones has delivered 102 points for Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 11 games in the Big Four Football Union this season and has virtually cinched the union's individual scoring title.

Ulysses Curtis, negro half from Florida A. and M. who plays with Toronto Argonauts. Curtis — like Jones, a first-year man in Canadian football—has 70 points on 14 touchdowns. Third place is held by Virgil Wawner of Montreal Alouettes with 60 points. Wagner, who comes from Belleville, Ill., is in his fifth season with Alouettes.

STILL REACTING TO EARLY SNUBS

Dear E. L.: Obviously you are suffering from a longstanding, somewhat complicated problem of psychoneurosis. And you need or psychoneurosis. And you need specialist help in exploring this sick condition, to fathom the history and mechanics of the allment, as a first step in getting control of it-just as you would need expert dental care in lo-cating and healing, or extirpating, the source of pain in an aching tooth.

It appears that your malad-justment starts with a conviction of social rejection. Thus even when striving, compuldoing kind deeds on their behalf, you unconsciously expect thankless rebuff or heedless exploitation of your do-gooder at-Hence you succumb to discouraged resentment, midway in each new campaign for ac-ceptance, and turn on the person bitterly, at least in your think-ing. This literally isolates you which accelerate neurotic de-pression, and keeps you in a chronic state of rage, anxiety and self condemnation—or call otional frustration.

FEELS ASHAMED OF NEED TO LOVE

Part of your neurotic pattern is that you won't let yourself get close to people. You guard against it involuntarily, even though hungering for it as salvation (which indeed it is), and overtly seeking it up to a point. overtly seeking it up to a point. This conflict doubtless goes back to crushing defeats, in early life of your first attempts to get of your first attempts to get psychologically close to signifi-cant persons. In fighting close-ness nowadays, you are hiding a tremendous need to love and be loved; you are afraid to expose this need, because in your ex-perience it never yet has been dignified by understanding at-tention or answering devotion tention or answering devotion

Cloisonne Panels, Pictures. Available In New Form

By PENNY SAVER

Heavens to gardenias, this is only Hallowe'en Day, and do you know my Christmas money has all been spent . . . mentally that is. Course it's not hard to understand such a situation, with the shop snooping I do each day. This morning, for, instance, I stopped by a jeweler's window, just browsing, mind, to view a display of cloisonne panels and pictures. Knowing full well that having once entered the shop, my spending money was going to suffer a terrific loss, I ventured into the sanctorum.

Ah, cherie! Soch magneeficent work I have never seen! Gorgeous, exotic, and just plain smasning, was each piece that I beheld with me two hazel eyes! Originally, cloisonne was executed by body, I was told, would, originally, means of soldering wire on a ally have meant the placing of copper base. The dictionary dehundreds of bits of wire. To fines it as an inlay between partitions, a surface decoration in enamel when the designs are and no less! In this new form,

Sharp Production Drop

EDMONTON (CP)—A decline of more than 22,000 barrels in Alberta's daily average oil production was recorded in the week ended Oct. 23.

This was reported by the petroleum and natural gas conservation board, which showed the province's average output as 74,309 barrels compared with as 74,309 barrels compared with 96,323 the previous week and 59,039 last year. Production is bridled by a limited market.

Biggest decline was shown in eastern refineries.

The association has asked the conservation board to establish a system of proration based on three factors: A "living wage" of floor production; depth of

Biggest decline was shown in Redwater, where the total was 27,877 compared with 47,653. Leduc dropped to 29,945 from 30,654. Other figures, with previous week in brackets, were: Turner Valley 9,428 (9,709); Lloydminster 1,695 (2,298); Excelsion 886 (1,460); Stettler 820 (911); Campbell 274 (284); Joseph Lake 1,005 (975); other

Vicomte Yves de Guerney, Scandinavian correspondent for the London News Chronicle, will on August figures).

Eleven new wells were reported ready to operate in the Redwater field, boosting the field's total to 656. They helped raise the province's total to 1,838 compared with 1,822 the previous week and 1,137 last

His "subject will be "Political and Economic Policies in North-ern Europe."

The wide gap between poten-tial production and available market has brought a sugges-tion from the Western Canada A student of history at the Sorbonne and in England, he be-came a free-lance writer, and in 1935 was assigned to Copenhagen Petroleum Association that a system of proration be intro-duced. On present quotas, based on the ability of wells to pro-duce, Alberta could yield more than 160,000 barrels of oil daily, lish fluently.

U.S. MAY CUT OFF FREE DOLLAR AID TO BRITAIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marshall Plan administrator William C. Foster indicated today the United States may cut off-at least temporarily-free dollar aid to Britain under the European Recovery Program.

Foster said in a statement, however, that United States Marshall Plan dollars will be kept on a "standby" basis, ready to be given to Britain in the event economic conditions there

"While British gold reserves have been mounting steadily," he said, "certain negative factors continue to operate, and these must be weighed jointly and taken into account in any agreement that is reached between the United States and Britain."
Britain has received a total of $2,711,153,000 from the United under the Marshall Plan since the recovery program began April 3, 1948.

Most people can't tell anything by looking at the parts of a radio. They judge whether a set is good or bad by the quality of what comes out and by the look of the cabinet.

That's the way it is with schools.

The factors that go toward making a good school are almost innumerable. You could make a list as long as your arm-as long as both your arms-and still only be starting. And even then, how would you know which items were important and which were not? How can you judge?

As in assessing a radio, you can consider what comes out and you can look at the cabinets-in this case, the buildings. The product of our schools is on display each June. You
